RESEARCH ACTIVITIES

I am studying the dynamics of forest ecosystems as affected by abiotic and biotic factors and its impacts on forest management. The main focus lies on ecosystems' adaptation to, resistance against and resilience after environmental changes with a special focus on climate change. Specifically, also the legacy effects of past land use on today's forest dynamics are studied.
System analyses in forest ecosystem research need to consider different disciplines on varying spatial and temporal scales. Hence, they are never single-disciplinary and require integrative approaches combining the advantages of different research concepts. I am interested in bridging natural sciences with socio-economy and integrate stakeholder knowledge into research concepts. Inter- and transdisciplinary research is challenging and effortful but solving nowadays problems in the context of environmental change requires holistic initiatives.

I am experienced in leading and co-ordinating inter- and transdisciplinary research projects:

- Scots pine decline Valais (funded by BAFU, Velux Foundation, canton Valais): 2001-2005, 30 scientific collaborators from 9 WSL-Departments worked on 15 projects

SCIENCE MEETS ARTS:

An interesting and relevant component of transdisciplinarity research and outreach is the interface between science and arts. Since 2011 several projects were conducted together with the Zurich University of Arts ZHdK and the Academy of Art and Design, FHNW Basel:

2011: Residency of the artist Christina Della Giustina at WSL. In the frame of the program Artists in Labs AiL she cooperated during ten months in the research unit forest dynamics, the tree-ring lab and the long-term forest ecosystem monitoring LWF, bridging science and arts. http://www.dg-c.org

2013: Museum "zu Allerheiligen" in Schaffhausen, Switzerland - Art exhibition "you are variations – plop". Artistic visualization and musical interpretation of WSL long-term forest monitoring data by Christina Della Giustina.

2013: MONTREUX Jazz Festival, Switzerland - "You are variations - Tune of trees at lake Leman – four songs from inside a tree": Performance of art and science culminating in a concert at the Jazz Festival. Artistic concept: Christina Della Giustina, Scientific framing: A. Rigling, Musical interpretation: D. Senn (Cello), D. Zimmermann (Cello), D. Buchwalder (Marimba), C. Moser (Oud), R. Linder (Shakuhachi) http://www.dg-c.org/index_projects.htm

2015: Primary school Leuk-Susten, Valais, Switzerland. "Wier si d'Böüm" (we are the trees) Integrative study week Art-Science with 24 pupils from the 4th class. Under the guidance of the artist Christina Della Giustina, professional musicians and Andreas Rigling and other researchers from WSL the pupils learned about climate change and forest ecosystems. They translated physiological monitoring data on soils, trees and the atmosphere into paintings and music, culminating in a public concert on the four seasons of tree functioning. The project was funded by the SNF-AGORA program and the Mercator Foundation. http://www.artistsinlabs.ch/events

2015: MONTREUX Jazz Festival, Switzerland - "You are variations - We are the trees": Concert and presentation on art and science. Artistic concept: Christina Della Giustina, Scientific framing: A. Rigling, Musical interpretation: children of the 4th class of the primary school Leuk-Susten, Musicians: D. Senn (Cello), D. Buchwalder (Percussion), R. Thie (Electronica), B. Meichtry (Flute), J. Metry (Guitar) http://www.montreuxjazzfestival.com/de/artist/you-are-variations

2015: Russian-Swiss Residency Exchange. In the frame of the program Artists in Labs AiL a residency takes place for 3 months (Sept.-Nov.) of the Russian artist collective "Urban Fauna" in the research group phytopathology and the research unit forest dynamics at WSL. The topic of the residency will be: Invasive species – good or bad? The residency is supported by the Institute for Cultural Studies in the Arts (ICS) and the Arts Council Pro Helvetia Zurich. http://www.artistsinlabs.ch/residency_programs

2015: COP21: United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change, 21st Conference of the Parties. Official artistic contribution of Switzerland: (in)visible transitions. Acoustic and visual interpretation of the water cycles in trees growing in four different climate zones. Artistic concept: Christina Della Giustina, Scientific framing: A. Rigling. Keynote lectures and podium discussion with Emanuele Coccia (Philosopher and author) and Andreas Rigling. Moderator: Yvonne Volkhart, Co-curator of the exhibition Eco-Visionaries and PI of the SNSF research project Ecodata - Ecomedia - Eco-Aesthetics.

2020: Online symposium "Techniques Matter. Researching More-than-Human Worlds" (2018), organized by Yvonne Volkart from the Institute of Aesthetic Practice and Theory IAeP, Academy of Art and Design, FHNW Basel. Keynote on "Climate change impacts on Swiss forests – long-term monitoring and field experiments to analyze the role of extreme drought in ecosystem dynamics". The symposium was part of the SNF project Ecodata - Ecomedia - Eco-Aesthetics.

2023: Workshop on "Practicing Daylight" at the annual conference of the Daylight Academy (2023) The workshop was part of the exercise-series "Visual Mediations", a dialogue to develop future directions for sustained transdisciplinary art-science research on "ways into seeing together".
